

You have the right to receive a “Good Faith Estimate” explaining how much your medical care will cost

- Under the law, health care providers need to give patients who don't have insurance or who are not using insurance an estimate of the bill for medical items and services.
- You have the right to receive a Good Faith Estimate for the total expected cost of any non-emergency items or services based on information provided at time of service.
- Your health care provider can give you a Good Faith Estimate verbally, one business day before your medical service or item, however you may also access a written copy prior to your appointment.
- If you receive a bill that is at least $400 more than your Good Faith Estimate, you can dispute the bill.
- Make sure to save a copy or picture of your Good Faith Estimate.
